Welcome to Lake Chelan

Lake Chelan State Park is situated in Eastern Washington on the forested south shore of Lake Chelan. The lake was carved by two competing glaciers, the Chelan Glacier and the continental ice sheet, during the Ice Age floods. The coniferous forest and the lake provide respite for visitors during the hot summer months. A large, sandy beach and boating opportunities attract visitors. Daily ferry service is available to the roadless community at the head of the lake.

This 127-acre camping park offers 6,000 feet of shoreline, lakeside views and expansive lawns for strolling and playing. The park gets an annual average rainfall of 11 inches and an annual average snowfall of 42 inches. The summer months tend to be very hot and dry, when visitors flock to the park’s lake to cool off.

The park also offers a variety of recreational activities including hiking, cross-country skiing, boating, swimming, scuba diving, bird watching and more.

Overnight accommodations

The park has 103 tent spaces, 35 utility spaces, one dump station, five restrooms with modern showers. The 35 full-utility sites that can accommodate RVs up to 45 feet long.

Lake Chelan State Park is extremely popular, especially during the spring and summer seasons. Early reservations are a must. Reservations for individual campsites may be made online at www.parks.state.wa.us or by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688.

Park history

Lake Chelan is located on land historically associated with the Chelan Indian Tribe, and it sits within the traditional territory of several native groups speaking the Interior Salish language.

The area was homesteaded in 1862 by John W. Stevenson, a blacksmith from Ohio. The town of Chelan was established as a military post in 1880 by Colonel John Merriam and was incorporated as a town in 1902.

In 1942 and in response to increased tourism in the region, State Parks bought the first parcel of land that would become Lake Chelan State Park. The park opened in 1943 and has since attracted multiple generations of families, several who have vacationed here since the 1960s.
