Welcome to Maryhill

Maryhill State Park is a 99-acre camping park with 4,700 feet of waterfront along the shores of the Columbia River in Klickitat County. The area is significant for its natural beauty, its access to the Columbia River, the surrounding natural wonders and its cultural history. Maryhill is also noted as a great location for windsurfers looking to challenge the Columbia. A full-scale partial replica of Stonehenge and the Maryhill Museum of Art are located near the park.

Overnight accommodations
The park offers several options for overnight stays. There is one primitive campsite, 20 standard campsites and 50 utility sites that accommodate RVs up to 60 feet long. Reservations for individual campsites may be made online at www.parks.state.wa.us or by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688. There also is a group camp that accommodates up to 192 guests, with a minimum of 25. It features a picnic shelter, restrooms and a campfire circle. Reservations for the group camp can only be made by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688.

Park history
Maryhill State Park is part of an area also called Maryhill, which was influenced by renowned highway builder, noted lawyer and financier Samuel Hill. The son-in-law of Great Northern Railway tycoon James J. Hill, Sam Hill built his majestic home and a full-scale replica of Stonehenge close to the current state park. A Quaker, Hill commissioned Stonehenge in 1918 as a monument to the Klickitat County soldiers who died fighting World War I. The structure was completed nearly 13 years later, shortly before Hill died. Sam Hill's wife, daughter and mother-in-law were all named Mary, and his home, now a museum, was named Maryhill to honor them. The park was named for its proximity to the home. In 1972, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers leased the property to the state of Washington to operate Maryhill State Park.
